MORRISON THE MAN.

Governor Francis Appoints Him Warden of the Penitentiary.

From t & Joneson City Trisune. Governor Francis yesterday appointed John L. Morrison, of Howard county, warden of the penitentiary. The appointment will go to the Senate to-day for confirmation, and under the rules will lie over one day. Mr. Morrison was one of the Governor's campaign managers. He is a level-headed business man and will worthily and honorably fill this most important position.

Apropos of gubernatorial appointments, it now transpires that Col. Griff Prather is to be the coal oil inspector for St. Louis. Outside sentiment has heretofore given this place to Mr. D. P. Rowland, but it is not to be that way. The fight between Williams, of Macon, and Blanton, of Adair, for the insurance commissionership, is useless, as the nan who will fill that position for the next four years will come from the southern side of the river; and from a source too reliable to be juestioned, the fact was learned ast night that Lon V. Stephens, of Boonville, can have the appointment by simply saying that he will accept it. From all the indications t appears that our townsman, A. M. Hough, will not be the adjutant general, and that Col. W. H. Wicknam, of Gallatin, will be at the eneral Jamison retires.

Knew Every President. Miss Mary Maccribbin, who died at Washington the other day nearly 100 years old, used to say that she had seen every president from George Washington to Grover Cleveland. She was living in Baltimore in 1812 and saw the bombardment of Fort McHenry. She knew well John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," and witnessed his first aphead of the war department after pearance on the stage at Baltimore. She went to Washington first in 1821, and it took twelve hours by

> The Prince's Dress. Following is a description of the dress of the Prince of Wales on a recent occasion: "He wore a dark overcoat with a deep velvet collar, with four-inch velvet cuffs at the sleeves, fawn-colored trousers, and his mourning band was not more than a couple of inches deep. His boots were made in one piece, being devoid of ornamentation in the way of toe caps, and well polished.
